IAESTE United States Launches New Website

Columbia, Maryland (April 6, 2009)— The United States affiliate of the International Association for the Exchange of Students for Technical Experience (IAESTE) has unveiled its redesigned website, www.iaesteunitedstates.org.

“For six decades IAESTE United States has connected technical students with information about international internships and short-term programs in over 80 countries around the world. With this new website, we are better able to connect a new generation of students with these global opportunities and resources,” said University Relations Manager, Michael Jackson.

The new website includes a number of new and improved features, including downloadable applications and forms, streamlined access to information about internship and short-term program opportunities, and links to various social networking capabilities. In addition, new functions such as an interactive blog will be made available in the coming months.

IAESTE United States is a program of AIPT. Since 1950, AIPT has provided expert advice and services to more than 60,000 people seeking international career-related experiences. A non-profit 501(c)(3) organization, AIPT provides support to thousands of students, early-career professionals, businesses, and attorneys seeking to expand their involvement in the global arena. AIPT is the J-1 visa and work abroad provider that offers the most comprehensive array of programs. For more information on programs offered by AIPT, visit www.aipt.org.
